National Ice Cream Day | Florida Dairy Farmers

Puffy Paint Ice Cream Cones

Summertime sure is hot! What's a treat that you can eat to cool off? That's right... ice cream! From vanilla to cookies and cream, this beloved treat sure has many flavors for everybody around the world to enjoy. To celebrate National Ice Cream Day, you can make your own puffy ice cream paint. So, what's your favorite flavor? You can surely try to make it into puffy paint in this fun activity!

Gather materials:

- Cardstock / White Paper
- Spoon / Popsicle Stick
- Paint / Food Coloring
- Shaving Cream
- Paintbrushes
- Cardboard
- Scissors
- Marker
- Glue
- Cups

Pick out your colors using paint or food coloring. What flavor would you like your ice cream to be? Vanilla? Chocolate? Strawberry?

3

Fill the bottom of a cup with glue so that it covers the bottom.

4

In the same cup, add shaving cream to fill about $\frac{3}{4}$ of the cup.

5

Then add food coloring or paint to the mixture.

Stir the food coloring / paint, glue and shaving cream using a spoon or a popsicle stick. Do you notice it becoming puffier?

NOTE:

Repeat steps 2-6 if you want to make another color!

7

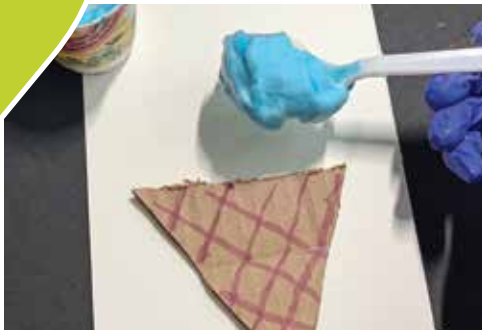

Cut out a triangular shape from cardboard to make a "waffle" cone.

8

Using a marker, add criss-cross lines to create the waffle cone look, then glue the cone onto cardstock paper.

Now you can either scoop your "ice cream" from the cup or use a paintbrush to paint it on top of the cone! You can mix other colors into it and maybe even add glitter as your sprinkles!

Your final product should look like this! For a sensory experience, touch the puffy paint. Is it cool? Is it soft? What does it feel like when it's finished drying?

yumm!
